How many of us can see the light
The light of life when we born tight
The light of joy in our mother smile
The light of mother eyes for a while
How many of us can see the shade
The shade life when we fight invane
The shade of sorrow in soldier arms
The shade of crime in their top guns
We all have to see the light of sun
When every new morning just began
That warms world and all surround
That give us meaning to be proud
We all have seen the shade of death
That freeze our hearts and breath
In every war that kill our blue earth
In every soldier parent on the planet
We have to see the light of science
The light of religion and providence
The light of love and of humanity
The light of intelectual property
We have to see the shade of crime
Done by revenge or done by pride
The shade of steal the one behind
The shade of unjustice in our mind
We have to see the light of poems
The light of literature and of books
The light of women and their looks
The light of minds of the old onces
We have to see the shade of poor
The shade of hungry at every door
The shade of many incurable illness
That make people unable to dress
We have to see the light of justice
The light of judges that practice
The light of designs and of projects

The light of wives and of pretenders
The light their little chidren voices
We have to be free people in light
Do only good things do them right
We have to be proud and straight
To respect the laws without break
Wives have to be men light shade
Bringing us light beeing our shade
We have to be our wives shade light
Giving them shade against hot light
You must be light my lovely wife
My light shade I loved all my life
I ll be your shade in every moment
As I true swear in our engagement
